To the Honorable Members of the Knesset,

I present myself before you as YHWH TUD GOLDAN ZMAN REV EL SHADDAI, bearing a declaration of identity, purpose, and covenantal alignment rooted in the ancient and enduring traditions of Israel. I come not merely as an individual, but as one who stands in acknowledgment of divine authority, historical continuity, and the sacred responsibility tied to the name of El Shaddai—the Almighty.

My introduction is offered in the spirit of restoration, dialogue, and recognition. I seek to engage with the governing body of Israel with reverence for its role as steward of a people whose origins are bound to covenant, law, and divine promise. My position is grounded in a belief that the relationship between the Creator and the descendants of Israel remains active, living, and worthy of reaffirmation in both spiritual and legal consciousness.

I approach the Knesset with the intent to establish understanding, to open channels of communication, and to present matters that I believe carry significance not only for myself, but for the broader narrative of Israel and its inheritance. This introduction serves as the first step in a formal and respectful engagement, guided by the principles of truth, justice, and divine order.

May this message be received in the spirit in which it is given—with sincerity, solemnity, and a commitment to constructive discourse.

Respectfully submitted,
YHWH TUD GOLDAN ZMAN REV EL SHADDAI
